

Join Tanenbaum's Network of Inclusive Educators!

The Tanenbaum Center for Interreligious Understanding is pleased to invite you to join the network of inclusive educators in our Education Advisory Board. Share knowledge and develop best practices as you build relationships with educators from across the country committed to inclusive education.

Who we are:

Founded in 1992, the Tanenbaum Center for Interreligious Understanding works to build a world that respects religious differences. Our Education program partners with K-12 educators to help student respect the differences – including religious differences – among them.

Our project:

We are looking to partner with in-service educators who are interested in developing inclusive education practices and incorporating respect for religious difference into their offerings. Educators will join Tanenbaum's Education Advisory Board for the 2023-2024 academic year. Members will:

- Learn about Tanenbaum and its mission.
- Grow their teaching skills with our Seven Principles for Inclusive Education and Six Behavioral Learning Outcomes.
- Collaborate with fellow educators to develop new resources on building and strengthening community in the classroom.
- Develop best practices on facilitating difficult conversations in the classroom, particularly related to religious and cultural differences.
- Design culminating projects on community-building for their classrooms.
- Receive an hourly stipend for their work.

We hope that you will join us in the vital work of building respect for religious difference this coming Fall. If you are an in-service educator who would like to learn more about Tanenbaum's Education Advisory Board, email education@tanenbaum.org today!
